BULLECOURT TAKEN, GENERAL HAIG BEGINS TO WIDEN THE BREACH IN HINDENBURG LINELiving No Time for Germans to Bring Up Reserves, British Press On.200 TEUTONS CAPTURED

French Bring Up Their Total of Prisoners Since April 16 to 25,000; French Hold Fast at Every Point Moving Down Their Adversaries.

By Associated Press.
Bullecourt, directly on the Hindenburg line, has been entered by British troops, who this morning were fighting at great distances from the Hindenburg line. The British have taken 200 German prisoners and are moving down the line. The British have taken 200 German prisoners and are moving down the line.

Counter attacks of extreme rapidity repeated have failed to shake the British grip on the line here and have at present been from striking gains when they are ready. Bullecourt has been captured in on all sides except on the north, the British having moved well to the east of the village, driving back toward it they have fought their way into the place, driving back the Germans.

On the French front northeast of the line, the French have been forced to employ fresh troops in an effort to stem the French advance. Last night they drove masses of men against the line all along the front but were unable to shake General Nivelle's hold on the valuable and hard-won ground on the plateau overlooking the Allette river, the outlying defense of Laon. Everywhere the French held fast, mowing down the Germans with their guns.

In the new battles which developed late last week, the French have taken more than 6,200 prisoners, bringing their total since April 16 up to approximately 25,000.

French guns have battered down the back door of Laon and the troops of General Nivelle are now only six miles from the German stronghold. One formidable barrier lies between them and their goal—the Allette river—but from the captured heights along the Douaumont-Danville, the French guns dominate this barrier.

Like the Chemin-des-Dames, the Allette runs east and west paralleling the French line. It is hardly worthy of the name of river but its bed is in a deep gorge which makes it a grave obstacle. Laon will not be captured except at a heavy price but the French victories of the last week have brought its capture appreciably nearer.

The developments on the battlefield are chiefly important for the possibilities they open up and the same may be said to be true of events behind the firing line. In Germany there is much talk of political reform and several proposals have been put forward in the Reichstag to curtail the power of the emperor and make the military responsible to parliament.

Startling reports come from Austria in regard to conditions there and apparently Count Tisza and his fellow reactionaries have the upper hand and are determined to crush the party of democracy with the same ruthlessness as heretofore. There are rumors of martial law in Hungary and Bohemia but with the suppression of newspapers for a month or more no reliable news has reached the outer world as to conditions in Austria.

The Russian battle remains unsolved but for the time being, at least, the provisional authorities seem to be safe. Reports of demoralization in the Russian army receive uncomfortable confirmation by a proclamation of General Gurko, commander on the eastern front ordering the soldiers to stop fraternizing with the German troops. General Gurko declares that this has become a common practice and that the bulk on the Russian front has permitted the Germans to concentrate troops against the English and French. In spite of the peaceable ending to the May Day demonstration in Sweden the internal troubles in that country seem to be rising. Riots and food demonstrations are reported from various points and from martial reports as are received the authorities are confronting an ugly situation.

BRITISH PUSH WAY WELL TOWARD BULLECOURT.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE. (By staff correspondent of the Associated Press.)—The British have pushed their way well within the town of Bullecourt, hand-to-hand fighting has developed there.

THREE LOCAL YOUTHS SEEK TO BE OFFICERS

Joseph Buttermore, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Buttermore of East Crawford avenue, went to Pittsburgh today to take the officers' examination.

Archibald Richardson, son of Rev. and Mrs. G. L. Richardson, has passed the officers' examination.

John Foley, son of Mrs. W. O. Foley of East Crawford avenue, is reported to have passed the officers' examination in New York state.

GERMANS GETTING INFORMATION AND SUPPLIES IN U. S.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 7.—To give administration leaders opportunity to explain the reason for the insistence on the embargo and newspaper censorship sections of the administration espionage bill, the Senate closed its doors when it took action on that measure. Senators understood that the government has information to show that under present conditions, information of military value is getting to the enemy and that censorship would stop it.

ALLIED COMMISSIONS TO APPORTION SEA TRAFFIC

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Two Allied war commissions sitting continuously, one in London and the other here, appeared today as one of the first actual steps to co-ordinate the powerful resources the United States brings into the war with those of the Allies across the sea.

The commission in London, with representatives of all the Allied nations including the United States, would receive and decide upon the appointment of seaborne traffic. The commission here would then charge itself with getting such supplies to those abroad, either by direct purchase or through present agencies.

While the inroads of the submarines continue, it is essential to conserve every ship for the most needed freight, and the only way that this can be done is to have the Allies submit their needs to a central body in London which shall have power to give them priority.

At the same time the commission in this country knowing what is wanted, would buy it and keep the railroads open to seaborne.

NATIONAL GUARD MAY NOT BE CALLED BEFORE JULY

WASHINGTON, May 7.—It was stated at the War Department yesterday that the national guard forces not yet in the federal service probably would not be called out before July in view of the fact that the new army will not have been reorganized, selected, examined and enlisted before August 1. This, it was pointed out, would make unnecessary the calling out of the rest of the guardmen before then except in case of emergency.

GOVERNMENT TO LEND BRITISH 100 MILLION

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The government has decided to lend Great Britain 100 million dollars to meet her needs in this country during May. A second installment of $25,000,000 was transferred to the British embassy today making, with the $25,000,000 handed her Saturday, a total of one-half the May loan.

MAY NOT SEIZE GERMAN SHIPS IN DASH WEST INDIES

WASHINGTON, May 7.—It was revealed in the House today that an unpublished provision in the agreement with Denmark by which the Danish West Indies were acquired by the United States was that German or other war-bound ships in the islands would not be seized or confiscated.

PART OF LONDON
BOMBED FROM AIR;
ONE MAN KILLED

By Associated Press.
LONDON, May 7.—A hostile airplane dropped four bombs northwest of London this morning. It is officially announced. The statement announcing the raid reads:

"In the early hours this morning a hostile airplane appeared over the outskirts of northeast London and dropped four bombs. One man was killed and a man and a woman injured.

No one in the area where the German airplane dropped bombs saw anything of the hostile machine. The people were awakened by the explosions but by the time they reached the streets the machine had disappeared.

O'Neil Appointed Receiver.

PITTSBURGH, May 7.—J. Denny O'Neil, insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania, was today appointed receiver for the Pittsburgh Life & Trust Company on the petition of Harry H. Ward, special counsel named by the Department of Justice, to investigate the affairs of the corporation and criminally prosecute all persons connected with the alleged misappropriation of the company's funds.

Munition Plant Wrecked.

KINGSFORD, Tenn., May 7.—An explosion early today at the Federal Dye-stuff & Chemical Company's plant, which makes munitions, wrecked a portion of the building and killed one man today.

CARLOAD OF SEED
POTATOES BOUGHT
BY SAFETY BOARD

County Committee Will Distribute Them to Planters at Actual Cost.

FUND OF $10,000 NEEDED

Finance Committee to Receive Subscriptions to Carry on Work of Mobilizing County's Resources for the War; Good Terms to the Buyers.

Fayette county farmers will shortly have at their disposal a carload of choice seed potatoes, ordered by the executive committee of the public safety committee, and to be distributed by the Fayette county farm bureau. The action to provide seed potatoes was taken at Saturday's joint meeting.

The potatoes will be distributed to farmers throughout the county at actual cost with the stipulation that they must be used for seed purposes. Applications should be made to the farm bureau by telephone, mail or personal visit. Payments are to be at actual carload cost of the potatoes and are to be cash when possible. A promissory note, payable December 1, will be accepted, however, by the executive committee. The carload of choice Rural New Yorker seed potatoes is expected to be here within the week.

Other recommendations at the meeting were to make a survey of all the farms in the county, not only to ascertain the increase in acreage, but also the supply of seed on hand; preserving and canning surplus supply of vegetables to prevent waste; and providing labor for farm work.

The finance committee met and organized Saturday afternoon in the Uniontown city hall, and voted to raise immediately $10,000 for the purchase of seed potatoes and other seeds for planting in this county. Albert Gaddie of Uniontown was chosen chairman of the committee, and Robert Norris of Connellsville, secretary. Arrangements were made whereby the banks and newspapers of the county will receive subscriptions from citizens who desire to donate toward the proposed $10,000 fund.

While all newspapers and banks in the county have been authorized to receive subscriptions to this fund of $10,000 with which to provide seeds for those who need them, it is probable that there will be a local committee appointed here to take care of the subscriptions. An attempt will be made to get the original members of the safety committee, E. T. Norton, Charles Davidson and F. W. Wright, together tonight to appoint this body.

Robert Norris, secretary of the financial committee, feels that the people will not realize the necessity of contributing to the fund unless its purposes are made clear to them by a small committee which will take the collection work in hand. Mr. Norris also hopes to get this committee organized at once, since within a very short time now, it will be too late for planting seed.

Mrs. W. O. Schoonover of Connellsville was one of the committee to take up an educational campaign, urging that all vegetables raised this summer be properly preserved.

UNION SUPPLY FURNISHES SEED POTATOES AT COST

In line with the well defined policy of the H. C. Frick Coke Company to promote by every possible means, and in the most effective manner, an increase in the production of staple garden and farm products, the Union Supply Company, with its chain of 69 stores at the present time, the coke company is rendering very valuable assistance to gardeners and farmers.

Seed potatoes have been very scarce and high in price. The Union Supply Company secured a good stock, however, which it has announced will be offered to growers at cost. The Frick company having offered to provide land free of charge at all its works, it is expected that potato raising will form a very active and profitable industry at the coming season.

YAN SANT MAY SEE SERVICE ABROAD SOON

Ernest Van Sant of North McCormick avenue will leave this evening for Pittsburgh where he will report for duty with the United States Engineers' corps which has been ordered to prepare for "immediate service abroad" by Secretary of War Baker. The regiment is being recruited by Colonel Edgar J. Ward, United States Engineer for the Pittsburgh district, and Van Sant enlisted last Thursday. The orders are thought to mean that the regiment will sail for France within a week to work on railroad construction.

Van Sant has been a student at the University of Pittsburgh for a year. Before going to Pitt he taught school in the North Union township schools. He is well known in this city, having lived here several years, and until he took up his studies was connected with several local baseball teams.

When he enlisted, he was told that the regiment would in all probability be ordered to France by the first of June, no orders being expected so soon.

MORE FLAG COMING

Second Consignment of 1,000 Paper Emblems Expected Wednesday.
The first consignment of 1,000 paper flags put on sale by The Courier has been exhausted, the last flag being sold early Saturday morning. An order for another 1,000 has been sent in and they will probably be placed on sale about Wednesday.

The demand for the flags is so heavy that it did not take long to exhaust the first shipment, and many are calling every day for them. The flags will be sold at the same low price of five cents, and will be placed on sale immediately on their arrival. A notice will be printed in this paper when the consignment is received.

POWER SHORTAGE COMPELS CUT IN TROLLEY SERVICE

West Penn to Run Hour Instead of Half Hour Cars Five Days a Week.

WILL BE ONLY TEMPORARY

Officials Hopeful That Present Schedules Can Be Resumed in Near Future; Unusual Demand on Fayette Power Station Is Cause of Shortage.

Owing to a shortage of power, the West Penn has announced that its railway service will be temporarily reduced, beginning today. The reduction will not apply on Saturdays or Sundays, and on other days the service will be reduced only between 8 A. M. and 3.30 P. M. Between that time cars with half hour schedules will run over hour, while those running every hour, from Lisenberg No. 1 to Uniontown by the Phillips route will leave every two hours.

A car will leave Connellsville over the main line 30 minutes after each hour, therefore being on hour headways. There will be hour headway to Vanderbilt, and half hour headway to South Connellsville, these lines remaining without changes. There will be hour, instead of half hour, headway on the line to Greensburg by way of Mount Pleasant, and also by way of Hanover.

The Phillips route cars will leave every two hours after 8.15, up to 3.15. After that they will run on the old schedule, as will all the other lines. On Saturdays and Sundays the old schedule will be followed.

The service reduction is only temporary yet it is quite indefinite when the old schedule will be resumed. Officials of the West Penn are hopeful that it may be resumed within a very short time.

The reduction was caused by power shortage, which, in turn, is declared due to conditions which could not have been foreseen. In 1915, the West Penn contracted for 45,000 kilowatts, additional capacity to be ready in 1916, and 15,000 more kilowatts to be ready in 1917. Of this total only 15,000 kilowatts is now ready. The demands for power have increased and it has become impossible for the West Penn to supply trolley power necessary to run the cars on the regular schedule, until the contracts for power installation have been carried out.

KILLED IN FLIGHT

Student Aviators, Flying without Permission, Drop 1,000 Feet.

By Associated Press.
HENNSTEAD, N. Y., May 7.—Two student aviators who had never piloted an airplane before and who were said to have begun a flight without permission at the government aviation school at Mineola today, were killed after a fall of 1,000 feet. They were Russell, Merrill, 23, of Locust port, N. Y., formerly a Cornell student, and Anthony Sileno, of Roosevelt, N. Y.

The aviators had been assigned only to try out a self-starting device. They were observed climbing into the biplane but it was not thought they planned to attempt a flight.

Ask Prohibition.
Several of the Connellsville churches passed a resolution yesterday asking for national prohibition during the war, the resolution to be forwarded to government officials at Washington.

Traffic Laws Broken.

A Uniontown man, who gave his name as John Doe, paid a $2.50 fine for breaking the traffic ordinance at 8.30 last night. The automobile turned his car on Pittsburgh street.

FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN DESTROYS
THE WILDER PLANT

South Connellsville Metal Coating Mill Burned Down On Saturday Night.

LOSS MAY REACH $20,000

Blaze Originates in Stable and Jack of Water Prevents Firemen From Doing Anything to Save It; Watchman Burned Trying to Get Horse.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the plant of the Wilder Metal Coating & Manufacturing company at South Connellsville late Saturday night. The building, which was of wood, was leveled to the ground within an incredibly short time, and the firemen on the scene were helpless, since the only water plug near the place was out of order. A boy came on a siding at the plant was burned up. A horse, refusing to leave the stable, where the fire is supposed to have started, was burned to death. The total loss will reach about $20,000, it is estimated.

The fire broke out, it is thought, at about 11.15, but was not discovered until about half an hour later. The South Connellsville firemen, the Connellsville fire department, and the Baltimore & Ohio firemen, were called out. It was impossible to throw water on the fire, and it is doubtful if the building could, in any case, have been saved. Before the Connellsville firemen got their chemical apparatus connected up, the building had been practically destroyed. Chemicals were played on the old safe works, formerly worked by the Pittsburgh Safe company, which adjoins the Wilder plant. The Ripley glass works, not far away, was not damaged by the fire.

The stable was a separate building of galvanized iron. The wind, however, carried the fire which began there to the main plant. Alex Buttermore, night watchman at the plant, discovered the fire and gave the alarm. In an attempt to save the horse from the flames, he was badly burned about the face and hands. His attempts were vain, however, for the animal refused to be led out and was burned to death.

There was no time to save a single thing from the flames, with the exception of the safe, containing valuable papers, which was thrown outside and broken open.

The Wilder concern was engaged in the coating of sheet metal with aluminum, for which work it and big contracts. Many Connellsville people hold small blocks of stock in the enterprise.

It is reported that the plant will not be rebuilt here, but that the company will re-locate in some city nearer the rolling mills. In order that transportation charges on the metal may be saved.

Saturday night's blaze was a spectacular one, and attracted hundreds of people to the scene. Yesterday, too, a number of people viewed the ruins of the plant.

Mr. Wilder stated today that he had about $7,000 insurance on the building. His loss will total about $20,000. Whether or not he will rebuild, Mr. Wilder could not say. Nothing definite as to the origin had been learned, Mr. Wilder said.

NEW OFFICERS

W. N. Leche Head of Men's Christian Workers' League.
W. N. Leche was yesterday afternoon elected president of the Men's Christian Workers' League of Connellsville, at its session in the United Presbyterian church. The election of the other officers of the league was held over until Sunday, May 20, when another meeting will be held, this time in the Presbyterian church.

Plans for taking a religious census of the city were made, and a committee appointed to supervise this census, and appoint the captains of the teams which will cover the various sections of the city. One afternoon will be devoted to this work. Just what afternoon it will be has not been decided. The idea is to find out just what percentage of the people of the city are affiliated with the churches, how many of those are voters, and similar information. This will be useful to the ministers and to the league in its future work, it is stated.

WANT CHICKENS COOPED

Mayor to Ask That Poultry Be Kept From Spilling Gardens.
Desiring to co-operate with the state public safety committee in its efforts to increase the food supply, city officials have now undertaken to discourage the man who allows his chickens to destroy other people's gardens.

While there is no ordinance against this, a man ought to have sense enough to keep his chickens from scratching up his neighbor's garden. Such things do not otherwise have any plots of ground laid out in vegetables. City Clerk A. O. Bixler said this morning. Mayor R. Marietta will issue a proclamation this week, calling on poultry fanciers to see that their chickens do not run loose and spoil any gardens.

SUPREME COURT KNOCKS OUT THOMPSON RECEIVERSHIP BY
REVERSING FAYETTE RULING*URGE KILLING OF STRAY DOGS

Safety Committee Would Thus Conserve County's Production of Wool.

Killing of all unlicensed dogs, before any attempt is made to increase the number of sheep raised in Fayette county, was recommended Saturday afternoon at a joint meeting of the executive committee of the county public safety committee, the food and supply committee, and the Fayette county farm bureau.

The question of ridding the section of its unlicensed dogs was taken up at length and a formal resolution adopted asking that county officials make it their business to see that all such canines are dispatched.

The question was brought up during the discussion on increasing the number of sheep. It was pointed out that the closing of an army was just as important as its feeding and that no action could be taken on the increased production of wool until the ownerless dogs, who kill hundreds of sheep yearly, are disposed of. The resolution was:

"Resolved, that the chairman appoint a committee of three to wait on and confer with the district attorney looking to instructions to the state constables and county detective to assist constables in killing all dogs upon which taxes have not been paid; also, to devise ways and means to compel constables to do their duty in this respect."

The committee appointed by Chairman E. E. Arnold of Vanderbilt, is composed of James Stuckelager, Fayette City, Mrs. William McShane, Uniontown, and William Thompson, Uniontown. Judge Van Swearingen was present at the meeting and made an address.

CASEY JONES' AMAZING FEAT

Local Athlete, With Two Hours' Sleep, Wins Second in Pentathlon.

Clyde "Casey" Jones of Connellsville, who finished second to Howard Berry of Penn. in the pentathlon at the Franklin Field meet a week ago, did so under conditions that would have killed chances of many another athlete, according to the Penn State Collegian. Jones gave up his chance of going to the relay races at Philadelphia, surrendering his place to Danbly, a team mate, with whom he had tied in the trials at State. Nevertheless, he and Bob Higgins, captain of the Penn State football team, managed to "bum" their way to Philadelphia, hiding freight cars and Pullman platforms most of the way.

Jones had less than two hours' sleep, and was stiffened from his cramped position under the platform door. But he took the mark in the broad jump, and leaped 19 feet, 6 inches, capturing second place in the opening event of the pentathlon. Then he went to the training quarters and took another snooze before the next event. And that was the way it went all afternoon—sleep and work—and the combination worked well. Higgins stood guard over his sleeping companion, arousing Jones each time his event was called.

Jones came through with flying colors. He finished third in the 5,500 meters, third in the javelin throw, fourth in the discus, second in the broad jump and fourth in the sprint. His performance landed him second place with a total of 15 points, two better than credited to Danbly, his teammate, who landed third.

After the event was over, Berry learned of the success of Jones and went to congratulate him, but found Jones again in the land of nod and refused to awaken him.

GUARANTORS TO MEET

Chauffeurs to Be Discussed on Tuesday Night.

A meeting of the Chauffeurs' guarantors will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the office of Attorney R. S. Matthews in the Title & Trust building. The meeting is one of great importance to those interested in the Chauffeurs and all guarantors are urged to attend.

A place for holding the Chauffeurs, the week of June 19-25 inclusive, and a plan for the disposal of tickets will be decided upon.

The outline of the program, as received by Secretary E. C. Moore today, shows that a fine array of talent has been secured. Among the attractions are Ralph Bingham, humorist; Ople Roud, novelist; Dr. Ng Poon, Chinese journalist; Ed C. Bailey Allen, former member of the "Good Housekeeping" magazine staff; Edwin M. Whitney, reader; Dr. Charles E. Barker; the Montague quartet; the White Hussar Band, and others.

Pay Tribute to Keplart.

Connellsville Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, has sent a large floral piece to Harrisburg to adorn the desk of Harmon M. Keplart, in honor of his recent installation into the state treasurer's office. Mr. Keplart assumed the office today.

Financier's Affairs Now Where They Were Before Proceedings Started.*HIS ATTORNEYS ALL AWAY

No Information as to Next Move in Plan for Rehabilitation of Uniontown Man's Financial Affairs is Forthcoming; Some Move is Certain.

By Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—The Pennsylvania supreme court today reversed the Fayette county court which some time ago appointed receivers for Jostiah V. Thompson and the case stands the same as prior to the receivership proceedings.

The supreme court decision was announced in disposing of the appeals contending the validity of the receivership. In reversing the Fayette county court the higher tribunal dismissed the bill and vacated the proceedings.

Three receivers were named by the county court on January 10, 1915, to handle Thompson's affairs. It was said that Thompson's estate is valued at $70,000,000 and that his indebtedness at the time the receivers were appointed amounted to about $22,000,000, of which $15,000,000 was secured by mortgages on substantially the entire property of Thompson.

Thompson, who was a banker, consented to the receivership proceedings, declaring that if his assets were conserved, all creditors secured and unsecured could be paid in full in a reasonable time. Subsequent to the appointment of the receivers certain attachments were issued against Thompson's property, the execution of which was contested. Several acts of the receivers were also opposed and an effort to have the receivership vacated by the county court failed.

The court in its opinion said the county authorities had no jurisdiction to appoint receivers for the property of Mr. Thompson as an individual.

"If the defendant is solvent as is alleged, the court says, 'a court of equity has no power to place his property beyond the reach of his creditors or to enjoin them from resorting to the remedies which the law has given to them for the protection of their claims.'"

"Even in the case of a corporation, a receiver will not be appointed where the only effect would be to hinder and delay the collection of valid claims, and the courts are without authority to make such appointment," the opinion said.

Just what the effect of the decision annulling the appointment of the receivers of J. V. Thompson will be, no person with authority or knowledge to speak upon the matter could be found today to even hazard a guess. While the situation created by the decision will make it possible for creditors to issue executions, the impression prevails that the Creditors' Committee will take prompt action in the premises to protect the estate against attacks from sources disposed to be unfriendly to the plan of conservation toward which so much effort has been directed. Secretary Scruggins of the committee is expected to arrive in Uniontown today following which a meeting of the committee will very likely be promptly held.

W. J. Sturgis, attorney for the receivers, and other attorneys interested in the proceedings, are in Philadelphia in attendance at the session of the Supreme Court. None can be found today willing to give any more definite opinion as to the effects of the decision than outlined above.

FIGHTS MARK CARNIVAL CLOSE

Visitors Put on Stunts of Their Own and Police Make Wholesale Arrests.

The carnival wound up Saturday night in a blaze of glory, with the police making wholesale arrests of people, who, as Chief Rottler says, were giving a show on the grounds and attracting attention from the real performers. Heavy sentences inflicted in police court yesterday morning followed the night's hilarity.

Mary Sidesbrom was fined $30 and Sadie Calhoun $15. Both were charged with being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest. W. T. Babcock, who tried to hit Patrolman Richey on the head with a beer bottle when he was arresting the women, was fined $20. Fireman Dalley caught Babcock's hand, saving Richey from injury. Mike Phillips and Dock Ash, also of the party, got 15 days to jail and $1.50 respectively.

Fines collected in police court yesterday morning totaled $81.50.

The carnival went from here to Johnstown.

Seeks a Divorce.

Attorney F. E. Younkin today instituted proceedings for a divorce on behalf of Mrs. Gertrude E. Van Horn of Connellsville, from George M. Van Horn, present residence unknown. Desertion, cruel and barbarous treatment are alleged. They were married in New York City, October 20, 1904.

MRS. ELIZABETH WALTON DIES

Mother of Mrs. John Duggan, Sr., Passes Away at Father's Home, Aged 90 Years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Walton, 96 years old, one of the oldest women of Fayette county and a resident of Conneltsville for 36 years, died this morning about 4 o'clock at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Duggan, Sr., at the Columbia hotel, West Side.

Mrs. Walton's death was not unexpected. She had been failing in health for the past five years and had not been out of the house for life past two years. She was able to be about in the rooms until last January. Since then she gradually grew weaker, death resulting from the infirmities of old age. Mrs. Walton was born at Waynesboro, Pa., February 17, 1821, a daughter of the late Daniel and Cecelia M. Walton. For a number of years she was a resident of Emmitsburg, Md., and was educated at St. Joseph's college there. She was married to Joseph Walton, most of their married life being spent in and about Cumberland. Mr. Walton died many years ago and in 1880 Mrs. Walton, with her family, came to Conneltsville, where she had since resided. She continued to keep house until her health failed. Since then she made her home with her children. Deceased was a member of the Immigrant Conception church, and had a host of friends, young and old, by whom she was held in the highest esteem. She is survived by the following children: Mrs. John Duggan, Sr., Mrs. Harmon M. Kephart, Herbert Walton, Lawrence Walton and Miss Katherine Walton, all of Conneltsville. Twenty-one grandchildren and about 15 great grandchildren also survive.

HAROLD EDWARD DECKER.

Harold Edward Decker, 27 years old, one of the best known young men of Conneltsville, died yesterday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock at the state sanitarium at Creson, Pa. Mr. Decker had been in poor health for some time past and was admitted to the sanitarium for treatment a week ago last Thursday. The body will arrive at Conneltsville this evening and will be removed by funeral director J. E. Sims to the home of the parents of the deceased, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Decker in Franklin avenue. Notice of funeral later. Mr. Decker was born in Conneltsville, October 12, 1889, a son of S. B. and Maria Griffin Decker. Virtually all his life was spent here. He was well known in musical circles, being a cornet soloist in the Conneltsville Military band and a member of Kiefer's orchestra. He was also a member of the Woodmen of the World. Mr. Decker was married at Beaver, Pa., January 13, 1916, to Miss Carol Decker of Lancaster, Mo. In addition to his widow and parents he is survived by one sister, Miss Ella Decker, and two brothers, Roger and James Decker, all of Conneltsville. An infant son, Charles Sylvester Decker, died a month ago yesterday.

WILLIAMS EVANS.

Williams Evans, aged 71, a well known resident of Dickerson Run, died shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning at his home. He resided in Dickerson Run for about 25 years. ## AGED WOMAN Run Down and Feeble—Made Strong By Vinol.

So many people in Conneltsville and vicinity are in Mrs. Wickert's condition we ask you to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, and if it fails to benefit we will return your money.

In her eighty-second year Mrs. John Wickert, of Russellville, Pa., says: "I was in a run-down, feeble condition and had lost flesh. A neighbor asked me to try Vinol, and after taking two bottles my strength returned, I am gaining in flesh, I have built up my health and I am feeling fine for a woman of my age, so I get around and do my housework."

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mrs. Wickert's case was because it contains beef and cod liver oil, iron and manganese, phosphorus and glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a weakened run-down system and create strength.

Right here in Conneltsville we have seen such excellent results from Vinol that it is a pleasure to know it is doing so much good for old people in other parts of the country. Laughery Drug Co., Conneltsville, Vinol is sold in the West Side by Dred H. Hauenberg. Also at the leading drug stores in all Pennsylvania towns.

WITH ALL OUR STRENGTH.

Nothing quite so well expresses the temper and spirit of America at this hour, in its determination to both prepare for and help win the war, as the patriotic and earnest with which the "Liberty Loan" is being absorbed.

Accepting the obligation to buy as a national duty, subscribers have been putting their "tenders into the Treasury Department at Washington at the rate of $150,000,000 a day, without taking into account the subscriptions being made over the counters of thousands of the smaller banks in the country. At this rate this loan, the largest ever issued by our government will be taken, and perhaps largely over-subscribed, within ten days.

The success of this loan is proof that, after all, there is no difference in degree between the patriotism of our people of means, our banks and financial institutions, who are enlisting their dollars for the war, and the patriotism of the workers on the farms, in the shops and in the assembly lines of industries who are contributing on less freely by the work of their hands.

The success of this loan, like the adoption of the universal service law by Congress, will have a value to the United States other than the immediate returns to be received. The military autocrats of Germany were hopeful that we would sink to the volunteer system in raising our army and would abandon when we decided differently. Our success in making the war loan will be a no less heavy blow to the war overlord. Hence these two significant events assume the form of notice to Germany that the United States has enlisted both its men and its money for the unalterable purpose of winning the war.

If Germany grasps the meaning she now knows that Americans have united, and unselfishly predicted, themselves, what they have and what they can produce, to the end that this nation shall not fail in its supreme duty of making war with all its strength.

CONSCRIPTION NO DISHONOR.

Even with the selective draft in operation taking service with Uncle Sam will, in a certain sense, be voluntary. The President's proclamation fixing the time for the registration of men eligible for conscription, will be the first official announcement that the country has need of its spirited, red-blooded young men. They will be notified of the time and place where they can register and each will be placed upon his honor to report promptly for that duty.

Official announcement that the country has need of its spirited, red-blooded young men. They will be notified of the time and place where they can register and each will be placed upon his honor to report promptly for that duty.

Response to the call for registration will be as patriotic as applying at a recruiting station. Registration is significant as a willingness to serve quite as much as it is a voluntary enlistment. After the registration is completed there will be drawn by lot a sufficient number of names to make up the quota of the district. Those not drawn will suffer no ignominy for having failed or refused to heed their country's call. They will have honored themselves and their country even if they will not be needed until a later call.

It is among the names of those drawn there be those who can better serve their country through retaining in some line of work which is necessary to the maintenance, equipment and sustenance of our army or navy, they will not be allowed to go to the front. It is the purpose of the selective draft to prevent men in the industries, where they can be of the greatest use, going out as soldiers and making it necessary to place unskilled workers in their places at home. This service will be as creditable, worthy and patriotic as bearing arms. There will be provided a place for every able-bodied citizen of conscription age where he can, and will be expected to, render the best and most useful service, and all alike honorable and necessary.

HOW TO HELP MOST.

There has been so universal a tender of their services by men and women, each willing to do "something" for their country, that the authorities have not yet found it possible to provide ways of utilizing the great army of volunteers. Thus are under way to provide methods for a routing the efforts of every willing citizen into some useful channel. Until these plans are worked out in detail and definite tasks are assigned to the different classes of volunteers, there are some general principles which should control the activities of every person in the discharge of their duties as loyal citizens.

"The highest duty of citizenship," says the Pittsburgh Gazette Times, "is the performance of whatever service the country calls for. Acting upon that principle, you will find war service comparatively easy. In the beginning you are asked to be normal and rational. Proceed with your business as usual, supply your wants as you have been accustomed to supply them, clothe yourself as you always have done, enjoy yourself according to your means, deposit your surplus money in bank as has been your wont. Don't waste, but don't skimp. Let the fever of the extraordinary time burn itself out to the fires of greater diligence in everyday occupations, and enhanced devotion to the common welfare and safety.

"Here and there a man will be chosen for the honor of wearing his country's uniform and bearing its arms in the ranks of the fighting forces. Here and there, also, a man will be found busy but misapplying his talents and skill. He will be directed to employment more useful to the country. There will be demand for men and women for special service. It will be simply different employment to the pecuniary remuneration for which will be added that most satisfying enjoyment, consciousness of the performance of patriotic duty. Most of our hundred million people will be touched by the war very lightly, if we all go about our business safely with hearts and minds attuned in loyal readiness to do what we can for one another and for all."

The cost of the war will be very great. Great in effort, treasure and sacrifice. We will not all be selected to bear arms, but each of us must make preparation to bear our share of the cost in some form. In that preparation we can do nothing better or more effective than to keep steadily at our daily tasks with more intense application, so that business and industry may move without halting.

We can help our country most by helping each other.

ANOTHER BILL TO KILL.

There have been few if any sessions of the Legislature in which more frank, unwise or ridiculous measures have been proposed than in the present. To this class belongs a bill introduced a few days ago by Representative Sones which would prohibit a person, except on their deathbed, from writing a will. The bill makes it unlawful for any person except an invalid, justice of the peace, magistrate, alderman or notary public, to write or prepare any deed, bond, mortgage or will. Also, it is made unlawful for any person except an attorney-at-law or state or county official to draw or state any account or give any legal advice to any person or representative in the settlement of the estate of any decedent.

This provision is added, "this section does not prohibit the writing of a will during the last sickness of any person where the services of any of the aforesaid persons cannot be obtained."

This bill is so absurd in its purposes and such an infringement upon the personal rights of individuals, that it should never have been allowed to encumber the calendar, let alone receive serious consideration by any member of the Legislature. It is another of the many bills of the present session which should be killed.

GERMANS IN AMERICA

"During the last quarter of a century there has been a startling falling-off in the percentage of Germans in the total number of immigrants who have come to this country," says a bulletin just issued by the National Geographic Society. "With more than 17,000,000 immigrant arrivals since 1890 only 1,024,000 have been Germans, whereas in the 14 years between the establishment of the American republic and 1890 out of a total of 16,699,000 immigrants there were 5,125,000 Germans—every third arrival a Teuton."

Of the 1,024,000 who have come to America since 1890, the percentage of greatest influx of foreigners, a proper deduction is made for those who returned to their homeland and those who have died since their arrival. It will be seen that there are fewer than a million former subjects of the Kaiser in this country who have not been here more than 26 years. Of more than 8,000,000 people of German birth and immediate ancestry among us less than 1,000,000 fall to the backwash of birth or long residence in America behind them.

"An examination of the statistics of American immigration shows that since the foundation of our government the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland has contributed 3,400,000 of her people and Germany more than 4,000,000. Great Britain, with a little less than 1,000,000, and Scandinavia, with something less than 2,000,000, have together with Germany, contributed more than half of the total immigration to our shores since the beginning of the Revolutionary War."

"Austria-Hungary stands next on the list of contributors to the immigrant stream that has flowed from Europe to America. Although Austro-Hungarians began to immigrate in considerable numbers only when the emigrants from western Europe had begun to fall off, sufficient have come from the dual monarchy to populate the State of Texas to its present density. Italy has sent its emigrant hordes to duplicate the population of Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico."

The Russians have come to our shores nearly 3,400,000. They could replace one-half of the population of New England."

Although the people of foreign birth constitute only one-seventh of the country's population, they contribute nearly one-fourth (22 per cent)

START CAMPAIGN TO STOP ILLEGAL SALE OF CIGARETS

Investigation Said to Have Shown That Dealers Sell to Minors.

ONE FINE HAS BEEN PAID

Hope of Investigators That Dealers
Would Desist of Their Own Accord Proves False. So the Law Will be Invoked; News Notes of Scintillate.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTSBURGH, May 7.—The anti-cigarette and tobacco law is being violated in Scottdale, it is stated. An investigation has been going on in town and several boys have owned up to the fact that they purchase cigarettes and tobacco from local dealers. They will be taken before the dealers and an effort made to stop the sale. Time was given them hoping that they would learn of the investigation and stop of their own accord, but it seems that they have even defied the investigation. A short time ago an arrest was made and a fine paid and now it has been decided that to arrest the guilty parties and have them pay stiff fines will be the best way to break the practice.

Preaches to Lutherans.
Rev. C. F. Gehr, president of the Pittsburgh Synod, and a number of the services at the Lutheran church here yesterday.

Barton Scrymgeour.
Barton Michael Scrymgeour, aged 55 years, who died at his residence home, was buried yesterday afternoon in St. Joseph's cemetery, following funeral services at St. Joseph's church.

Boy Scouts Meet.
The Boy Scout patrol in charge of Homer Ruth held a very interesting meeting in the high school building.
Sole Profitable.

The division of the Ladies' Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church that held the rummage sale in the old West Penn waiting room cleared over $40.

Attend Lodge Institution.
Thomas H. Hill, James H. Hurst,
Earl Gilchrist, Frank Parker, James
Keegan, J. H. Marvin, M. A. Renner,
William Cox, Joseph M. Hill and A. G.
Newman were the Scottdale men who attended the organization of the new Elks lodge at South Brownsville on Thursday afternoon. The local men had a very enjoyable visit. James J.
Curtley, formerly of Scottdale, was made the first elected ruler.

Miss Hild Kauterbach.
Miss Gertrude Kauterbach, who attended at her home here Saturday afternoon in honor of her houseguest, Miss Helen Young, a Margaret Morrison girl of Pittsburgh.

Making Progress.
Miss Anna George of Edgewood spent Sunday with her parents at her home here. Miss George, who is teaching at Edgewood, is still studying under the best teacher that Pittsburgh affords and is rapidly gaining recognition in music circles in Pittsburgh. On Thursday night of last week she sang in a concert by the Methodist choir at the Carnegie Music Hall.

Appointed City Letter Carrier.
Howard Murray of this place has been appointed regular letter carrier to succeed Orland S. Lova, who resigned recently. Robert Christner has taken the parcel post delivery.

Notes.
Miss Sara Bowman of Pittsburgh is visiting friends here.

Notes.
Mother's Day will be observed in the local churches here on next Sunday.

BIG PATRIOTIC RALLY FOR MOUNT PLEASANT MAY 14

Flag Raising and Speeches at Frick Park to Follow Monster Street Parade.

HONORS FOR GUARDSMEN

William Sullenberger, Who Served
With Company E on the Border, is Buried With Military Honors; Township Commencement on June 12.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, May 7.—There will be a great patriotic rally here on May 14. All of the lodges and societies in this community, regardless of nationality and creed, will take part.
There will be a parade that will move from the east end of town at 7:30 o'clock and end at Frick Park where there will be a flag raising and addresses. A large pole, donated by the Mount Pleasant-Conneltsville Coke
Company, is in course of construction at this time.

This promises to be one of the largest affairs of this kind the town has ever undertaken. Already the various committees have held several meetings and more are being planned.
The surrounding coke works are sending mounted men to represent them in the parade. The committees are:
Music, Joseph Miller, A. O. Anderson and Charles Steeber; advertising, John Bolinger, George Seigman and M. O.
Hopwood; to visit and get company men, J. Z. Fox, R. L. Crosby and William Lowry; speakers, Charles Steeber, R. L. Crosby and T. O. Anderson;
flag and pole, William Lowry, J. Z. Fox,
Leo Shaw and R. L. Crosby; finance,
M. O. Hopwood, George Seigman,
George Kicher, Joseph Miller and T. O.
Anderson.

Military Funeral.
A military funeral was held for William Sullenberger at 2 P. M. on Sunday. Sullenberger dropped dead on Thursday evening. He was a member of Company E, Tenth Regiment, and served on the border. The firing squad of Company E wore olive drab uniforms and the pallbearers blue.
The funeral service was very impressive. The interment was made at Fairview.

Veterans Meet.
The members of Robert Warden
Post held their first afternoon meeting on Saturday afternoon. The men are getting older and the ranks are thinning out so that it was considered that afternoon meetings would bring a better attendance.

Baccalaureate Sermon.
The baccalaureate sermon of the Mount Pleasant township high school will be held on the afternoon of June 10 and on the evening of June 12 the graduating exercises will be held. The graduation commencement will be held at the township high school on Saturday,
May 26.

Notes.
James White who is very ill, was taken to the hospital Saturday for treatment.

at Indiana Normal, a daughter of Charles Sauterwine of Hecla, who was taken ill at Indiana, was brought to the Memorial Hospital here.

Thomas Fitzgerald, who is in business on the North Side, Pittsburg, moved his family there on Friday.

Blaine B. Coldsmith and daughter, Sara Catherine, accompanied the former's father, J. B. Coldsmith back to Harrisburg yesterday for a few days' visit with Mrs. J. B. Coldsmith and daughter Eleanor, who have been there for several weeks.

REDUCED RAILWAY SERVICE

The WEST PENN SYSTEM regrets to announce to the PUBLIC that owing to Shortage of Power, it must temporarily reduce its railway service beginning Monday, May 7th. The reduction will not apply on Saturdays or Sundays; on other days the service will be reduced only between 8 A. M. and 3.30 P. M.

The power shortage is due to conditions which could not have been foreseen.

In 1915 the West Penn System had a capacity of about 58,500
Kw. In that year and early in 1916 it contracted for 45,000 Kw. additional capacity to be ready in 1916 and 15,000 Kw. to be ready in 1917. 15,000 Kw. was furnished in 1916, but due to unprecedented delay in deliveries by manufacturers, none of the remaining 45,000
Kw. is yet ready.

Since 1915 the Demands for Power as all persons know have vastly increased and nevertheless the West Penn would have been able to take care of all demands if the contracts it made for power installation had been carried out.

It is expected that the reduction in railway service will be of short duration. The West Penn System asks its patrons to exercise their best patience.

WEST PENN SYSTEM.

FARMERS WARNED OF GERMAN ERROR

Young Meat Animals Should Be Fully Developed.

KILL TOO MANY YOUNG ONES

This Will Result in Scarcity That Will Require Several Years to Overcome, According to Reports From Chicago Stockyards—In a Month or Two They Would Be More Valuable.

Farmers of the United States, of their own volition, are making the same mistake that agriculturists of Germany did under government compulsion, at the outbreak of the war, and the United States as a result will suffer from lack of meat later on just as Germany is suffering now, according to reports from the Chicago stockyards.

The mistake in the slaughter of young meat animals and improperly fattened or "finishing" hogs, which are being rushed to the market in great numbers, partly to take advantage of the present high prices, which the average farmer thinks are too good to last, and partly because of a rumor which has spread throughout the country that the government is contemplating in the near future fixing maximum prices for food products.

Every day thousands of hogs weighing from 175 to 200 pounds are pouring into the yards to be slaughtered. By feeding them a month or two more they might be made to weigh from 250 to 300 pounds. The loss of meat by this kind of marketing is enormous. When the war started the German government, realizing that the country was to be blockaded by the British navy, but thinking the war would not be a long one, ordered the immediate slaughter of a great proportion of its food animals. The result was a temporary plenty, but heading stock was exhausted upon, and as a result as the war years went by there was an ever-increasing scarcity of meat.

A crop of wheat or corn can be raised in one season, but breeding stock on the farms cannot be replenished so rapidly, so that if the indiscriminate slaughter of immature stock does not cease packers fear that present prices will in another year be considered extremely low.

To Open Food Bureau.

A food production bureau to act as a clearing house in the employment of men and women and boys and girls on the farms of Cook county will be opened in Chicago by the Cook County Truck Gardeners and Farmers' association in the plant to increase the acreage of farm crops this summer along the lines suggested by the federal government.

"The farmers of Cook county have been dependent to a certain extent upon labor agencies to get farm help," said Mr. Geweke, "but the class of help obtained from this source, of course, has been the export help. What we will need now, if our crops are to be increased, are people to carry the crops through the weeding and harvesting season."

"We will be able to get enough expert farm help to plant the crops, as one man can plant as much as twenty men can harvest. But we must have some assurance that we will have labor to care for the crops after they have been planted."

Prefer Experienced Workers. Mr. Geweke said that the Cook county farmers would ask the Chicago board of education to help them obtain boys and girls from the schools, who will be provided with permits. A particular appeal will be made to the Polish and Bohemian sections of the city for help. The wages for unskilled farm labor, he said, would be from $1 to $2 a day during the weeding season and probably as high as $3 a day during the harvest season. "Those who have had some farm experience will be given preference in employment."

James A. Tatten has volunteered to help buy two carloads of seed potatoes, provided others will join with him in the project.

The city authorities have under consideration a plan to place the vegetables of the city and the inmates of the Hildewell and other penal institutions not otherwise employed on a tract of land of more than 1,000 acres in extent near the Hildewell and raise there vegetables and other farm products. The plan has the sanction of the circuit judges and others interested. "These gardeners" would be under strict supervision of guards and compelled to work.

The result tests the work—George Washington.

WHAT FRENCH HAVE DONE IN ONE WEEK OF DRIVE

In just one week the French in their great attack on the front from Soissons to Amiens, nearly fifty miles, did these things:

- Took more than 100 guns, some of large caliber.
- Took approximately 20,000 prisoners.
- Occupied twenty good sized villages, not including hamlets.
- Reconquered about fifty square miles of French soil.
- Put out of action in killed, wounded and prisoners, on a conservative estimate, at least 100,000 German soldiers, the equivalent of seven divisions.
- Forced the German high command to throw in twenty divisions from their last reserves, their "strategic reserve," whom they were saving for a great offensive campaign, to save their whole front in France from disaster. And the battle only began!

ENEMIES TO SUCCESS.

Learn to Avoid Timidity, Shyness or Self-Consciousness.

Timidity, shyness and self-consciousness belong to the same family. We usually find all where we find any one, and they are all enemies of peace of mind, happiness and achievement. No one has ever done a great thing while his mind was centered upon himself. We must lose ourselves before we can find ourselves. Self-analysis is valuable only to learn our strength, it is fatal if it makes us dwell upon our weakness.

Timid, shy people are morbidly self-conscious. They think too much about themselves. Their thoughts are turned inward; they are always analyzing, dissecting themselves, wondering how they appear and what people think of them. If these people could only forget themselves and think of others they would be surprised to see what freedom, ease and grace they would gain, what success in life they would achieve. Thousands of young people are held back from undertaking what they long to do and are kept from trying to make real their great life dreams because they are afraid to jostle with the world. They shrink from exposing their sore spots and sensitive points, which smart from the lightest touch. Their super-sensitiveness makes cowards of them. —O. S. Marden.

OIL UPON THE WATERS.

Why It Tames the Billows and Calms the Troubled Sea.

Waves in midocean are caused entirely by the action of the wind. The adhesion between the rapidly moving particles of air which compose the wind and the surface particles of the water causes the water's surface to be dragged along with the air. Small ripples are immediately formed. These ripples soon excite others near them. They unite, and, due to the friction between the water particles, each succeeding ripple piles up on the top of previous ones.

Just as soon as oil is spread upon the water, however, the size of the waves is reduced like magic. The reason for this is interesting.

Oil, unlike water, has very little internal friction between its particles. The ripples of oil formed by the wind therefore cannot pile upon each other to any considerable height; hence water waves cannot grow in an area of oil placed about a steamer. They begin to fall down instead. By the time these waves reach the land they will have lost their formative ripples, and the result is a perfectly calm surface over the portion of the sea through which the boat is making its way. —Popular Science Monthly.

BRITISH SAVED THE ENEMY.

Rescued Prisoners After Submarine Sank Hospital Ships.

Only one of the incidents reported in the sinking of the two hospital ships Donax and Lanfranc, showing the amazing difference between the moral of the Germans and British, is that of the saving of a badly wounded German officer by a British soldier only last badly wounded.

While other German wounded prisoners aboard the Lanfranc were fighting frantically to get into the lifeboats as the ship was settling and foundering was imminent this British soldier, the struggling Teutons on deck and were before for one of their countrymen they had forgotten, carrying him up to a lifeboat barely in time.

Another almost contrast is seen in the action of the British patrols in waiting around to pick up 162 German wounded, although at immediate risk of being torpedoed.

HOW CAPITAL SIZED UP ARTHUR JAMES BALFOUR

Wears Frock Coat and Striped Trousers—Movements Suggest An "Outdoor Man."

Washington has sized up Arthur James Balfour in this way:

Five feet ten and three-quarter inches in height.

Weight 155 pounds or thereabout.

Of slender figure; with narrow shoulders that stoop slightly, but very loose, shaggy arms—a figure usually athletic for a man of sixty-nine years.

The Balfour head is long and narrow, with an overhanging brow, "belting" type. It is covered with gray hair, at the temples thinned down to a thin sheen of whiskers that extend an inch along the cheek.

The Balfour face is "sharp," though the mild gray blue eyes detract somewhat from the general impression gained when the Balfour countenance is in repose. The nose is aquiline, almost hawklike, with prominent bridge.

The Balfour eyes are rather prominent, ordinarily steady and penetrating save when the Balfour smile comes into them to radiate over the entire face.

This smile is infectious—"winning," it might almost be called.

When the Balfour smile is working—which is most of the time—there is little in the expression to suggest the "bloody Balfour" of Fenian days when the then secretary of foreign affairs for Ireland was compelled, with arm band, to stay frequent disorders.

The Balfour voice is that of the orator and diplomat. It possesses all the charm of the well cultivated English vocal vehicle. It is soft, modulated, almost to a whisper at times, though it is decidedly resonant when roused in public speaking.

The chief use Mr. Balfour makes of his brilliant power of speech is to keep it out of action most of the time. He is an eloquent listener, his smile taking the place of speech.

While engaged in official missions, such as that which brings him to the United States, the British secretary for foreign affairs garbs himself much as he does when he goes to parliament.

The chief features of it are a long frock coat that flaps around his knees, gray striped trousers, comfortably square toed shoes, a black stria tie and a narrow brimmed silk hat that appears to sit uncomfortably on his head.

The Balfour walk and movement suggest "the outdoor man." His stride is long and swinging, and he moves along at a very rapid gait.

The Balfour diversions—he is a bicyclist—are bicycling, golf and almost legless footpaths for dinner and the "billiard shocker" sort and profound works on philosophy. He can recite pages of Socrates in the original. He speaks French, German, Spanish, Italian and can make himself understood in the original Gaelic.

That the distinguished statesman has a sense of humor is indicated by the tribute of one of his associates, who in authority for the statement that "Balfour can make a really good pun, with an American punch, as you call it."

TAKE TWENTY SUBMARINES. Base Located by British, the Starving Crews Surrendered.

A member of the British war commission declared in Washington that twenty German submarines and their crews were captured by the British on April 10, the day before the party sailed.

"They weren't exactly captured, either," said the Englishman. "They had been searching for a destroyed base for days, had been suffering for food and water, and when our boats picked them up many of the men were on the verge of starvation. The crews were quite subdued and gladly surrendered."

"England is getting a lot more submarines than you people in America have any idea of."

"The submarine commanders are having a rough time of it. Their bases are sought out and destroyed almost before they are established. The British know of certain bases, but they let them alone until the submarines are gone, then destroy them and leave the U boats in a hole."

Pineapple Juice. As an aid to digestion, a really material aid, the pineapple stands alone among the fruit. Its vegetable papain neutralizes or perhaps rather digests all unwholesome substances in the stomach. Fresh pineapple or, better still, the fresh juice of one placed in direct contact with eggs or roasts or milk will move this fact conclusively by producing a better tasting dish. In cases of catarrhal ailments of the throat and, in its downward connection, the alimentary canal or tract pineapple cannot be overestimated, and it acts with equal force in malarial affections. —New York World.

NATIONAL GUARD ARMORED CARS BELIEVED EQUAL TO EUROPE'S

READY FOR SERVICE AT THE FRONT!

It was reported that among the first military equipment, when judged by American troops, to be sent to France will be a division of national guardsmen, picked especially from the men who recently saw service in the Mexican border. A detachment from the milliammen of New York state, which has the largest enrollment of state soldiers, has been mentioned especially. While lacking in many matters of European standards and the requirements of modern warfare, the National Guard has adopted many war inventions, such as the armored motor car of which a section is seen in this picture. There is not a sufficient supply of these cars, but each one we have is equal to a European rival, it is believed.

They Simply Won't Be Married. Several young men were recently asked by a writer in the Woman's Home Companion why they refused to be married. Their answers throw considerable light on what is becoming a national problem. One said that girls are too clever for the men nowadays—that he wanted "just a wife" and the girl he had been engaged to marry was making more money than he was and refused to give up her work. Another complained of the expensive tastes of the modern young woman, another that he had set out to accomplish certain things before marrying. Still another refused to be sentenced to hard labor for life, and one complained that the local girls were "a bit narrow."

Wild Bees. Wild bees gather the nectar most frequently in the buckwheat. They also will attack blossoms that the tame bees ignore. This bee from the woods doesn't seem to care for propagated flowers, nor will it enter any hive that has been placed for it, no matter how enticing the food there. It is far more vicious than its cultured brothers.

Stirring Stories of the Sea

The Trade Wind
The Strange Tale of a Helpless Ship and a Blind Crew

Copyright by the Century Company

THE crew was dazed. The last sea song had resounded over the smooth waters of the bay; the last drunken shout, the last challenge were voiced; the last light faded in helplessness and maddening unity, and the red shifted men were sprinkled around the moonlit deck, motionless.

Though the barrel of rum braced on the main hatch was but slightly lowered, their sleep was heavy. Scarcely a man at the end of a Cape Horn passage may not drink four or deeply. Some lay as they fell, face upward, others on their sides, for awhile, then to roll over on their backs and so remain until the sleep was done, for in no other position may the human body rest easy on a hard bed with no pillow. And as they slept through the tropic night the full moon in the east rose higher and higher, passed overhead and disappeared behind a thickening haze in the western sky, but before it had crossed the zenith its cold, clinical rays had worked disastrously on the eyes of the sleeping men.

Captain Swarth, dominator of the lawless crew, prone upon the poop deck, was the first to awaken. There was pain in his head, pain in his eyes, which were swollen, and a whistling tumult of sound in his ears coming from the blundering darkness surrounding him, while a farthing vibration of the deck beneath him applied his awakening brain that the anchor was dragging. As he staggered to his feet a violent pressure of wind hurried him against the wheel, to which he "stung."

"All hands, there!" he roared. "Up with you all! Go forward and pay out on the chain!"

Shouts, oaths and growls answered him, and he heard the nasal voice of his mate repeating his order. "Angel," he called, "get the other anchor over and give her all of both chains."

"Aye, aye, sir," answered the mate. "Send a lantern forward, Bill. Can't see our noses."

"Steward," yelled the captain, "where are you? Light up a deck lantern and the blunder!"

He heard the steward's voice close to him and the sound of the blunder lights being removed from their places, then the opening and closing of the cabin companionway. He could see nothing, but knew that the steward had come below to his storeroom. In a minute more a shriek came from the cabin. It rang out again and again.

"We're stone blind, cap'n!" they wailed.

And soon sounded from the companionway, "I'm blind, I'm blind, cap'n. I can't see. I lit the lantern and turned my fingers, but I can't see the light. I'm blind." The steward's voice ended in a howl.

"Shot up, you blasted fool!" answered Captain Swarth. "Get down there and light up."

"Where's that light?" came the mate's voice in a yell from amidships. "Stowak painter's jammed, Bill! Can't do a thing without a light!"

"Come at here and get it!" Steward's hoarse voice came from forward, drunk on the wine, as the men groped at and climbed the poop steps.

"We're stone blind, cap'n!" they wailed. "We lit the fore-deck lamp, but it don't show up. Aye, aye, blind!"

"Come down here, Bill!" called the mate from below.

As Captain Swarth felt his way down the stairs a sudden shock stifled the vibrations caused by the dragging anchor, and he knew that the chain had parted.

"Stand by on deck, Angel! We're adrift," he said. "It's darker than ten thousand black cats. What's the matter with you?"

"Can you see the light, Bill? I can't. I'm blind as the steward, or I'm drunker."

"No, is it lit? Where? The men say they're blind too."

"Here, forward and on the table!" The captain reached this end, searched with his hands and turned them on the hot plates of a kitchen. He removed the bowl and slung the bar on his wrists. The smell came to his nostrils.

"I'm blind, too!" he growled. "Angel, get it, the moon. We're moon-blind. And we're adrift in a square."

"I'll only last a few days, boys," said the captain bravely. "We shouldn't have slept in the moonlight in these latitudes. Drop the lead over. One of you—weather side. The devil knows where we're drifting, and the small anchor won't hold now. We'll have it." One man, more well possessed than the rest, had dropped the lead over the side. An able seaman needs no eyes to heave the lead.

"A quarter six!" he sang out, and then platiately: "We'll fetch up on the barrier, cap'n! 'Spouse we try to get the other hook over!"

"Let the anchor alone!" roared the captain. "No anchor chain'll hold in this. Keep that lead a-going. Tom Plate, if it's you! What bottom do you find?"

"Quarter less six," called the leadsman. "Soft bottom. We're shoaling." "Angel," said the captain to his mate, who stood close to him, "we're blowing out from south-south-east. We're drifting along enough to fetch up on the reef if it was in our way. There's hard bottom in the north channel, and the twenty fathom lead wouldn't reach it half a length from the rocks."

"And the south channel by due southeast from our moorings," continued the captain. "Wind's not west. I should say, right down from the hills, and I've known these blasted West India squalls to last three days, blowing straight and hard. This has the smell of a gale in it already. Keep that lead a-going, there."

"No bottom," was called repeatedly until the captain sang out, "That'll do the lead!" Then the leadsman called up the line, and they heard his respectful, unpleasant voice, cursing softly but directly to himself. Captain Swarth descended the stairs, silenced the steward with a blow, felt of the clock hands, secured his pistols and returned to the deck.

"We're at sea," he said. "Two hands to the wheel. Loose and set the fore-topping stays and the foremast." "What for?" they answered complacently.

"No arguments!" yelled Swarth. They knew their captain, and they knew the ropes on the blackest of dark night. Blind men climbed aloft and felt for foot ropes and gaskets. Blind men on deck felt for sheets, balyards and braces, and in ten minutes the sail and the rigging were clear, the line whistling along before the gale, with two blind men at the wheel endeavoring to keep her straight by the right and left hand on their faces.

"Keep the wind as much on the port quarter as you can without broadening!" yelled the captain in their ears, and they answered and did their best.

"Where're ye going, Bill?" asked the mate wearily as he scrambled up to him.

"Light out to sea and, unless we get our eyes back soon, right across to the flight of Odin, 3,000 miles from here. We've no business on this coast in this condition. What alls you, Angel? Lost your nerve? Blame up. We'll get used to it. Get a couple of hands at the helm. We take our departure from Kittiwake Point, Faribault Island, at 6 o'clock this morning of the 10th October. We'll keep a Geordie's log book with a jackknife and a stick."

They have the log for him. It was marked for a now useless twenty-eight second sund glass, which Captain Swarth replaced by a spare chronometer held to his ear in the companionway. It ticked even seconds, and when twenty-eight of them had passed he called "Stop!" The markings on the line that had slipped through the mate's fingers indicated eight knots.

"Seven, allowing for wind steering," said the captain when he had stowed away his chronometer and returned to the deck. "Angel, we know we're going about south-east by east seven knots. There's practically no variation of the compass in these seas, and that course'll take us clear of Cape St. Roque. Just as fast as the men can stand it at the wheel we'll pile on canvas and get all we can out of this good wind. If it takes us into the south-east trades, well and good. We can feel our way across the water, and unless we hit something, of course."

"You see, it blows almost out of the east on this side, and it'll haul more to the south-east and southward as we get over. By the wind first; then we'll square away as we need to. We'll know the smell of the trades—nothing like it on earth—and the smell of the Gold Coast, Ivory Coast, Slave Coast and the Kumeru. And I'll lay odds we can feel the heat of the sun in the east and west enough to make a fair success at the course. But it won't come to that. Some of us'll be able to see pretty soon."

It was wild talk, but the demoralized mate needed encouraging. He answered with a stammering voice, "Lucky we got in grub and water yesterday."

"Right as you are, Angel. Now, in case this holds on to us, why, we'll find some of our friends over in the light, and they'll know by our rig that something's wrong. Flinders is somewhere on the track—you know he went back to the sugar business—and Clunk put a slave deck in his hold down there last spring. And old man Slack—I did him a service when I capped the corvette that was after him, and he's grateful. Hope we'll meet him. I'd rather meet Clunk than Flinders in the dark, and I'd trust a Japanese trader before either."

"S'pose we run foul of a bulldog?" "We'll have to chance it. This coast's full of them too. Great guns, man! Would you drift around and do nothing? Anywhere east of due south there's no land under Cape Orange, and that's 250 miles from here. Beginning tomorrow noon, we'll take deep sea soundings until we strike the trade wind."

The negro cook felt his way through the preparing of meals and served them on time. The watches were set, and sail was put on the big as fast as the men became accustomed to the new way of steering. Before nightfall on that first day they were surrounded under foremast, topsail and top gallant sail and mizzenmast, with the spunkier furler as useless and the 150 adding its aid to the foremast stay-sail in keeping the big before the quartering seas which occasionally climbed aboard.

The men, with the exception of a few dropped into a querulous, whining discontent. Yank Tate, the carpenter, maintained through it all a patient faith in the captain and, in so far as his influence could be felt, acted as a foil to the irascible, blundering Tom Plate the foremast lawyer, the man who had been at the lead line at Barbados.

Tom marked himself for future attention by insolent and disapproving comments on the orders of his superiors and a habit of moving swiftly to another part of the deck directly he had spoken, which prevented the angry captain from finding him.

Dim as must have been the light of day through the pelting rain and storm cloud, it caused increased pain in their eyes, and they found them with their weakness, applying means like wet cloths as fast as they could be procured. The captain doled these remedies, but frankly confessed his ignorance of anything but time as a means of cure. And so they existed and suffered through a three days' damp gale and a fourth day's dead calm, when the breeze veered to a squall under with all sail set, ready for the next breeze. It came, cool, dry and faint at first, then brisker—the unmistakable trade wind.

They bowed the big about and braced the ship on the starboard tack, steering again by the feel of the wind and the rattling of shanking leeches aloft.

They took occasional deep sea soundings with the breeze shaking in the wind but found no bottom, and at the end of fifteen days a longer heave to the ground swell was evidence to Captain Swarth's mind that he was passing Cape St. Roque, and the soundings were discontinued.

"No use bothering about St. Paul rocks or the Rocas, Angel," said he. "They rise out of the deep sea, and if we're to hit, soundings won't warn us in time."

One day Yank Tate appeared at the captain's elbow and suggested in a low voice that he examine the treasure chest in the lower deck. "I was down storing away some oakum," he said, "and I was sure I heard the lid creak, but nobody answered me, so I couldn't feel any better."

Captain Swarth descended to his cabin and found his keys missing; then he and the carpenter visited the chests. They were locked tight and as heavy as iron.

"Some one has the keys, Yank, and has very likely rubbed the diamonds. We can't do anything but wait. He can't get away. Keep still about it."

The air became cooler as they sailed on, and, judging that the trade wind was blowing more from the south than he had allowed for, the captain heaved the wind squarely ahead, and the breeze veered faster. Still, it was too cool for the latitude, and it puzzled him until a low voice that he examined the treasure chest in the lower deck. "I was down storing away some oakum," he said, "and I was sure I heard the lid creak, but nobody answered me, so I couldn't feel any better."

harm. I didn't want to be defin round w' blind men. How'd I know anybody could ever see any more?"

"And mistake, Tom. All we wanted, it seems, was a good scalding with hot coffee. There must be some medicinal virtue in hot coffee which the doctor hasn't learned, and—well—Tom, you've earned your finish."

"Cap'n, you can't do it. The men ate with me," stammered the man. "Possibly they are. I heard you all growling yesterday morning. You're a pack of curs. I'll get another crew for you, Todd," he said, "steward told me he was out of coffee, so we'll break a bag out of the lazarette. It's a heavy

"What in thunder does it mean Angel?" cried the captain desperately. "If all hands of storm we ought to drift away from the center."

A voice out of the night above the shrieking wind answered him. "You all fired fool, don't you know any more than to heave to in the puff stream?"

Then there was the faintest disturbance in the sounds of the sea, indicating the rushing by of a large craft. "What?" roared Swarth. "The gulf stream? I've lost my reckoning. Where am I? Ship ahoy! Where am I?" There was no answer.

"Draw a bucket of water, one of you!" he ordered.

This was done, and he immersed his hand. The water was warm. "Gulf stream?" he yelled frantically. "Gulf stream? How did we get up here? We ought to be down near St. Helena."

"We were blown out of the north entrance of the bay Angel, instead of the south as we thought. I was fooled by the soundings. This is a West Indian current, and we're somewhere around Flatters."

The crew now put the brig on the starboard tack and took hourly soundings with the deep sea lead. As they hauled it in for the fourth time the men called that the water was cold, and on the next sounding the lead reached bottom at ninety fathoms.

"We're inside the stream and the blundering fellow's cursing Angel. The storm center's leaving us," said the captain. "I know pretty well where I am. These storms follow an inevitable track, and I judge the center is to the east of us, moving north. We'll square away with the wind on the starboard quarter now, and if we pick up the stream and the ship don't rise I'll be satisfied to go in."

"It's too much for me, Bill," answered Mr. Todd wearily. "I can navigate, but I'm not a navigator. This is blind men's bluff."

It was nearly breakfast time now, and the men would soon be eating. With his pistols in his coat pockets the captain stationed himself beside the entrance to the foremast and listened to comments on his folly and bad seamanship which ascended from below until the harsh voice of Tom Plate on the stairs indicated his coming up. He reached toward Tom with one hand, holding a cocked pistol with the other, but Tom slid easily out of his wavering grasp and fled along the deck. He followed his footsteps until he lost them and picked up instead the angry plaint of the negro cook in the galley amidships.

"I do know who you are, but you want to get right out of my galley now. You hear me? I've had enough of this coming! Inter my galley. Cwan, now! Is you de man dar's all time stealin' my coffee? I'll gib you coffee, you trash!"

Captain Swarth reached the galley door in time to receive on the left side of his face a generous share of a pot of scalding coffee. It brought a involuntary shiver of agony from him. All that day and the night following he chose to lie in his darkest state room with his face bandaged in oily cloths. In the morning he suggested the bandages and took in the state of his stateroom fittings and his clothing hanging on the hooks. It was a jargon of sight. To could not see with his right eye and but dimly with his left, but a scrutiny of his face in a mirror disclosed deep lines that had not been there, distorted eyelids and the left side where the coffee had scalded burned to a large, angry blister. He went to bed.

Three miles off on the port bow was a large, square-bowed, square-yarded ship hove to and heading away from them, which might be a frigate or a subsidized Englishman with painted pols.

Angel Todd stood near, his chin resting in his hand and his elbow on the companionway. Forward the watch sat about in coils of rope and sheeted poles, or walked the deck unsteadily, and a glance aloft showed the captain his rigging hanging in lights and yards pointed every way. The same glance apprised him of an English ensign, union down, at the end of the starboard spunkier gaff, with the halcyons made fast high above the reach of bustling blind fingers. Tom Plate was coming, lit with none of the best of the blind and quivering aloft at the damaged distress signal.

To secured another ensign—American—from the bag locker in the booby hatch and hoisted it, union down. In place of the other. Then he dropped to the deck and looked into the pistol of Captain Swarth.

"Hands up, Tom Plate, over your head, quick!"

Senreco
The double-service tooth paste,
Keeps teeth clean AND GUMS HEALTHY.

Keeping the gums healthy and the mouth sweet is very important to health; more teeth are lost through the loosening of the tissue that holds the teeth in place than from decay.

Dental science to-day demands that a tooth paste must keep the gums healthy as well as clean the teeth.

Senreco was formulated to meet this requirement. Hundreds of dentists are prescribing and using Senreco because they have found that it does measure up to that standard.

SENRECO IS A WONDERFUL CLEANSER.

In addition to its remedial properties Senreco is a wonderful cleanser; acts directly on the mucin film, the basis of tartar; leaves the mouth cool and clean-feeling. As some one has expressed it—Senreco gives one a new idea on mouth cleanliness.

Get a tube to-day at your druggists or toilet counter—enjoy the healthy, cleanly feeling its use gives your mouth and gums. Notice how brilliantly white Senreco makes your teeth. It performs this two-fold service for you and yet costs no more than the ordinary, old-fashioned tooth paste that simply cleans the teeth and leaves a pleasant taste—25 cents for a large 2 ounce tube.

A Story of the West
Full of Ingenuity and Resource

To street musicians was due the untimely death of one of England's foremost humorists, John Leech. The strain of ceaseless application to his work rendered Leech abnormally sensitive to street noises of all descriptions, and street music in particular drove him frantic. The organ grinders it is said, knew of his caution toward them and played within earshot of his studio simply to plague him. In a letter to Mr. Leech, M. P., who was framing a bill for the suppression of street noises, Mark Lemon the editor of Punch declared that beyond a doubt Leech's ultimately fatal malady, angina pectoris or breast pain; was due to the disturbance of his nervous system, caused by the continual noise of street bands and organ grinders.—London Opinion

What Comes Next?

"What's a dreadnought, father?" "A dreadnought, my son, is a battleship so large and heavily armed that it does not fear anything."

"Then what is a superdreadnought?" "A superdreadnought is still bigger and more heavily armed. They were designed especially to give the dreadnoughts something to be afraid of."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Flubdub—Why have you never married, Singdeter? Singdeter—Well, the women have always regarded me as an unfortunate fellow who wasn't bad enough to need reformatory or good enough to make a desirable husband.—Life.

Started Early.

He—When did she begin to fear that he had married her for her money? She—Well, I believe her suspicions were first aroused when she had to pay the minister.—London Telegraph.

THE WAR WILL MAKE HEAVY DEMANDS ON THE FUEL INDUSTRY

More Coal and Coke Will Have to be Produced This Year Than Last.

EUROPE SHORT OF COAL

A "Fuel Board" Suggested to Control Operation and Provide a Supply of Men: Close Cooperation Between Operators and Railroads Necessary.

Coal, coke and oil are the heart of the nation's life. These fuels are even more important in the face of the additional heavy requirements of the railroads and the many new ships. Coal tonnage for naval vessels is twice as great under the stress of actual war.

We must produce more coal and coke in 1917, and we will have to do it with fewer men, says the Coal Age. We have 61 per cent. of the coal reserves of the world, and we are mining nearly 50 per cent. of the world's total output—but that's not enough. Great Britain is about 15,000,000 tons short of coal. Foreign nations will look to us for help. Our domestic and industrial requirements will be greater.

What shall we do? We must increase efficiency through a centralized control, or "fuel board." Such a commission should be made up of competent and representative mining men. This board should have power to eliminate absenteeism in mines. The British estimate that absenteeism in their mines is 2.5 per cent. of which 6 per cent. is due to inexcusable indifference.

There must be close cooperation between the railroads and the mine operators, so as to cut corners, lessen the unnecessary movement of cars and prevent congestion in certain localities. This will require a re-districting of the country to shorten hauls. Consumers must secure coal from the mines nearby and not get it from distant fields when there is an abundance close at hand.

It will be the patriotic duty of manufacturers and all citizens to accept, if need be, grades of coal they have not been accustomed to use. This means an immediate educational campaign.

If radical measures are found necessary, mine labor and shipping facilities will have to be concentrated at certain points, even at the expense of other districts. The delays in loading railroad cars at wagon mines must be investigated.

The mines must work full blast this summer, and everyone should be encouraged to lay in a full supply of fuel before cold weather starts. The needs of the nation should be paramount, and mine owners in selling coal should refuse to take advantage of present national stress.

CHINA SUFFERS R. R. TROUBLES

In Developing and Marketing Its Coal, One Mainly to Defective Transportation Facilities.

The present defective transportation methods of China, and the possibilities of economic development if capital were applied to improving them, are illustrated by the instance in which Shanghai has been suffering from something like a coal famine, while in southern Hunan Province, a district from which there is a continuous water route to the great port at the mouth of the Yangtze, the correspondence of a Shanghai paper was willing that coal was cheap and plentiful, with very little demand.

The situation is due to the low water that exists in practically all the Chinese rivers in winter. The coal-producing district of southern Hunan reach the Yangtze by way of the so-called Tungting Lake (which is little more than a marsh in the season of low water), and its tributaries, particularly the Ssang River. This is a comparatively small stream, and in mid-winter it cannot be relied upon to float loaded barges. The result is that Shanghai is largely dependent on Japanese coal, which has reached abnormally high prices.

Articles in the Shanghai press suggest that it should be possible to remedy this situation apart from the building of railroads, by improvement in the method of water transportation. The probability of such improvements in the near future seems rather small.

MRS. BRIDGES WAS "PERSUADED" TO TRY NERV-WORTH

Now She Enthusiastically Recommends the Tonic to Others.

This recently given signed statement is well worth re-reading: Connelville Drug Co.—I have to say something in favor of the new nerve tonic you're selling, called Nerv-Worth. I have suffered for some time with dizzy spells, blushing, constipation, sleepless nights and in fact I was all out of sorts and very nervous.

I was persuaded to try Nerv-Worth for my troubles and I have taken about a bottle and my troubles are leaving me. Nerv-Worth certainly hits the spot. I recommend Nerv-Worth.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGES.

Your dollar back at the Connelville Drug Co.'s store if Nerv-Worth does not give you the same kind of benefits it conferred upon Mrs. Bridges. Ask there for the new Nerv-Worth Laxative Tablets, 25 cents a box. Wonderful food for stomach, liver and bowels, especially in connection with Nerv-Worth tonic.

Nerv-Worth is sold in Scotland by the Broadway Drug Store, in Brownsville at W. J. Lewis' Drug Store.—Adv.

URBAN POPULATION GREATLY

Increased; Has a Great Effect on the Food Supply.

When we consider that 61% of the whole population of this Country lives in cities, we can understand the needs of an increase in food products, which come chiefly from the farms. It is an urgent call. It is a call upon the patriotism of every farmer, farm hand and land owner. Every acre should produce its quota of food products. The time to plan for this result is at hand. No delay can be allowed. Plant big acreage. Plan for a big yield. Work for a bumper crop. Prices will be good. The Country's need is the farmer's opportunity. The Citizens National Bank of Connelville, 138 Pittsburg Street. Our Country calls; let every farmer respond.—Adv.
